the face, a crushed chest and internal injuries as the result of an auto collision early Thursday evening on Route 159 about four miles north of Kingston.

Investigating officers said the auto driven by Neff crashed into the rear of another driven by Quilby Strauges, Zanesville. Strauges had stopped his car while some sheep owned by C. E. Baldwin were being driven across the highway. Strauges and Frances Susa, of Lancaster, riding with Neff, escaped uninjured.

Neff was brought to the hospital by Mr. Baldoser, and is under

RUSSIANS, JAPS PREPARING FOR WAR IN SPRING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(UP)— Soviet Russia and Japan are buying American airplanes at a fast-growing pace in preparation for the German-Russian-Japanese war which military experts now believe may break out next spring.

Russia, with her enormously greater resources, is outstripping Japan in purchases of these planes at a ratio of nearly two to one. In addition Soviet factories are turning out hundreds of fighting planes under a forced production schedule.

During the last 30 days Soviet airplane purchases in this country totalled approximately $1,000,000,
the United Press was informed.
These purchases were said to be merely the prelude to other orders already placed for future delivery, or concerning which bonafide inquiries have been made on American manufacturers.

COUNTY YOUTH HAS CHANCE TO ENTER ACADEMY

A Circleville or Pickaway county youth has a chance to be listed as an alternate to an appointment in the U. S. Naval academy at Annapolis.

Peter F. Hammond, Lancaster, short-term congressman, wrote to Lawrence Goeller, chairman of the Pickaway county Democratic executive committee, asking him to seek a youth who would like the possibility of joining the naval academy.

Mr. Goeller has applications for any boy interested.

The principal is expected to be a Fairfield county youth, while three alternates will be chosen in case he is not accepted.

HOCKING YOUTH TRIED IN DEATH OF HIS COUSINS

LOGAN, Dec. 4.—Harold Edwards, 20, of near Laurelville, is on trial before Judge Phil A. Henderson on a charge of second degree manslaughter, resulting from an auto accident on Sept. 13 which claimed the lives of Ruth Elick,
15, of Sugar Grove, and Turley Jackson, 16, of Rockbridge. Edwards waived trial by a jury.

The two victims were cousins of the defendant. They were struck by his car while they were walking along a highway. A family reunion was in progress at the time of the accident.

Another cousin, Florence Miller, 15, of Rockbridge, was seriously hurt and was recently dismissed from the Logan hospital.

RAILROADS SHOW BIG INCOME GAIN IN FISCAL YEAR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(UP)—
American railroads earned net income of $42,789,982 during the first nine months of the year, compared with a deficit of $66,180,281 for the corresponding period of 1935, the Interstate Commerce Commission reported today.

A compilation of earnings of class one steam railways, based on reports of 144 carriers, showed:
Net railway operating income for the nine months period at $434,864,001 this year against $321,201,770 in 1935; depreciation of $145,140,542 this year against $146,287,646 in 1935, and federal income taxes of $19,502,668 this year against $12,856,261 last year.

EARLE BOOMED FOR DEMOCRATIC VOTES IN 1940

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(UP)—
Decision of the Pennsylvania house Democratic delegation to support Rep. Sam Rayburn, D.
Tex., for house majority leader was viewed today in some quarters as an initial maneuver toward booming Gov. George H. Earle of Pennsylvania for the 1930 Democratic presidential nomination.

Action of the 27-member delegation—second strongest in the house—definitely gave Rayburn an edge over Rep. John J. O'Connor, D., N. Y., in the fight for the post.

Pennsylvania representatives saw in the move the possibility of an eastern-southern alignment of friendship which might aid Earle if he seeks the 1940 presidential nomination. They said Rayburn's leading supporters conferred with Earle and Sen. Joseph Guffey, D., Pa., before the caucus.

Duke Of York To Assume Throne If King Abdicates

Nine Heirs in Sight If Edward Decides to Quit
in Order to Marry Mrs. Simpson; Little Girl
Not Yet 10, Second in Line for Crown

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(UP)—The Duke of York, second son of the late King George, a shy, slim prince of 41, was ready today to take his brother's place as king of Great Britain and Emperor of India, and as head of the House of Windsor.

It will be up to him, if King Edward abdicates, to ascend the throne, with his Scots Duchess as queen.

His heir, and the probable next ruler of the kingdom and the Empire, would be his elder daughter, the imperious little Princess Elizabeth, 9½ years old, who is beginning already to bear a strong resemblance to her grandmother Queen Mary.

With Queen Mary

The duke is spending much time with Queen Mary. His occasional talks to his brother, the king, have resembled somewhat those of a family representative and the activity of his private secretary, Sir Eric Mielville, former secretary to the governor general of Canada, in Downing street gives weight to indications that arrangements have been made for him to become king if King Edward abdicates.

Yesterday the duke hurried back to London from Scotland and went at once with the duchess to mar-borough house to see Queen Mary.
They remained there for lunch,
where King Edward joined them,
and then remained for dinner.

After dinner the duke visited the king for 10 minutes at Buckingham palace, and he also went to his own home at 145 Piccadilly to confer with his younger brothers the dukes of Gloucester and Kent.

Always quiet, inclined to stammer when he talks in public, the duke has spent much time fulfilling public engagements because of the frequent absences from the country of the king.

He married, April 26, 1923, Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, youngest daughter of the 14th Earl of Strathmore and Lyon, a proud Scots house. The marriage was of particular interest because the king, then Prince of Wales, was unmarried and because the Duchess was a Scot, and with her as queen the union of the kingdoms of England and Scotland would be cemented even more firmly.

They have two children, Princess Margaret Rose, 6. If the duke succeeded to the throne Princess Margaret Rose would be second heir.

Elizabeth to Reign

There has been some speculation whether the duke and duchess would have other children.
It has been taken generally for granted, however, that Princess Elizabeth was likely to reign and that she would be a forceful queen.

A son born to the Yorks would displace her.

Under the law of succession, any son of the monarch, and then his daughters in rank according to age, are heirs. Only if the

WALLY MOTORS TOWARD CANNES

Edward's Friend Seeking
Seclusion on Riviera at Friend's Home

PARIS, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Mrs.
Wallis Simpson was in France today, speeding across the country toward seclusion at the villa of friends in Cannes, on the Riviera.

The American divorcee was riding in a black automobile, a hotel proprietor at Rouen said, with license No. CUL 548. She left Rouen shortly before noon, with blinds drawn, and headed south.

The United Press confirmed in London that King Edward VIII presented Mrs. Simpson with such a car and with the plate CUL 548.
The king's cars are licensed from 532 through 548.

Her destination was believed to be Villa Lou Vieil, at Cannes, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Herman
Rogers, old friends from America.
Servants at the villa said the Rogerses were absent all day, but that "a Mrs. Simpson" was expected there.

Scores of reporters and photographers surrounded the villa Tri-anon at Versailles, outside Paris, when reports circulated Mrs. Simpson would stop tonight with friends there. It is owned by Sir
Charles and Lady Mendil.

The hotel proprietor said Mrs.
Simpson left in a closed car for Cannes.

She was accompanied, he said,
only by her chauffeur and a valet.
Mrs. Simpson was reported to be traveling in a rust-colored, tailored suit with a Tyrolean hat to match. She appeared calm.

A group of French actors and actresses said they saw Mrs. Simpson in the Hotel De La Poste in Rouen.

An actress, Madia Daury, who was reading a French afternoon newspaper, identified her from a picture.

When the actress found the hotel lobby filled with secret service men, she telephoned to friends in Paris.

BRITISH STEAMER STOPPED AT SEA BY REBEL SHIP

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(UP)—A report to the News Chronicle today said that a British merchant ship had been seized in the Mediterranean sea by a Spanish rebel warship.

GIBRALTAR, Dec. 4.—(UP)—

The Spanish rebel gunboat Can-ovas Del Castillo halted a Russian steamer four miles from here today by firing shots across the ship's bow.

Rebel officers ordered the Russian ship to Ceuta, Spanish Morocco, under escort.

MADRID, Dec. 4.—(UP)—

A fleet of 31 rebel bombing planes flew over Madrid at 2 p. m. in perfect formation. It was the biggest display of rebel aerial strength in the siege, but no bombs were dropped.

"Booms" York

GREAT BRITAIN'S most pow- erful publisher, Lord Beaver- brook, above, has begun a "boom" to place the Duke of York, King Edward's brother, brother, on the British throne. This action is coincident with the government crisis in Britain over King Edward's friendship for the American-born divorcee, Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson. Lord Beaverbrook recently re- turned to England the same day he arrived in the United States, re- putedly because of alarm over the publicity given the king and Mrs. Simpson in the American and Canadian press. The Duke of York is looked upon with greater favor by the British Conservatives also because King Edward has leaned toward Lib- erals and Laborites.

COMPROMISE HOPE ENDED BY SPEECH

England's King Must Give Up Mrs. Simpson or Abdicate, Prime Minister Declares as
House of Commons Listens to Talk

'MORGANATIC MARRIAGE IMPOSSIBLE'

Special Law Would Be Refused by Dominions,
Foe of Friendship Tells Parliament

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Prime Minister Stanley
Baldwin, in a statement to the House of Commons today,
on the King's proposed marriage to Mrs. Wallis Simpson, said, "no such thing as a morganatic marriage is known in our law."

The prime minister thus closed the door to any compromise by which the King might marry Mrs. Simpson privately, not as his queen, and still retain the throne.

Abdication Only Alternative

Since the King seems determined to marry Mrs. Simpson, the only alternative apparently would be for him to abdicate.

Baldwin admitted that legislation could be passed,
whereby the King's wife would not become queen but said,
"the government is not prepared to introduce such legislation."

"The King requires no consent from another authority to make his marriage legal," Baldwin said, "but the lady he marries necessarily becomes queen."

Regarding a special law
to change that, Baldwin added:
"Any legislation would require the consent of the dominions and I am satisfied from inquiries I have made that this assent would not be forthcoming."

No Indication Given
The premier gave no indication of what the King plans to do.

Baldwin's statement was brief
and when he had finished, the house adjourned at 3:55 p. m., leaving the momentous issue still undecided.

Commons can be called in special session tomorrow; otherwise, the final showdown will wait until Monday.

Churchill Comes To Edward's Aid

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(UP)—
King Edward VIII has decided to fight for his right to marry Mrs.
Wallis Simpson rather than abdicate at once.

In his battle to prevent the cabinet from forcing him off the throne the king has the support, usually unimpeachable sources
revealed today, of Winston Churchill, the brilliant conservative member of parliament, who is said to have offered to form
a new cabinet should Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin resign.

Churchill is the leader who has questioned Baldwin twice in the house of commons in the last 24 hours, with an implied warning
to the cabinet to take any "irrevocable action" without informing parliament.

How long the youthful monarch intends to play out his cards
may depend in part on popular sentiment in the current crisis.
But in any event it appears that an historic fight, probably the greatest in England's long history, is in the making. All other English kings who have defied their ministers have lost—some of them their heads.

The king's decision to fight, reliable sources said, was communicated to other members of the royal family, with the result that Queen Mary threatened to go into strict retirement and the Duke and Duchess of York threatened to leave the country if the king marries Mrs. Simpson.

The Queen's threat presumably means she would become a sorrowful recluse, never again to be seen in public.

SHORT ILLNESS TAKES LIFE OF MRS. SWEARINGEN

Three days' illness of pneumonia caused the death at 8 p. m.
Thursday of Mrs. Minerva A.
Swearingen, 69, wife of James S.
Swearingen of Jackson township.
Mrs. Swearingen had been suffering from a severe cold for several days, but her condition did not become serious until pneumonia developed.

The funeral will be Monday at 2:30 p. m. at St. Philip's Episcopal church with the Rev. L. C.
Sherburne officiating. Burial, which will be private, will be in Forest cemetery with Mader's
Funeral service in charge.

Friends may call at the home Sunday and Monday.

Mrs. Swearingen was one of Pickaway county's best-known women. She was active in the Episcopal church and the Daughters of the American Revolution.

She was born Dec. 3, 1867 a daughter of James and Sarah Fleming Anderson. On Nov. 12, 1890 she married James S. Swearingen in Wayne township.
Surviving besides the husband are two sons, Henry B. Jackson, son township; three brothers, William F. Anderson, Maryville;

Benjamin, Columbus; Edward S.,

"Booms" York

GREAT BRITAIN'S most powerful publisher, Lord Beaverbrook, above, has begun a "boom" to place the Duke of York, King Edward's brother, brother, on the British throne.
This action is coincident with the government crisis in Britain over King Edward's friendship for the American-born divorcee, Mrs. Wallis Simpson. Lord Beaverbrook recently returned to England the same day he arrived in the United States, reputedly because of alarm over the publicity given the king and Mrs. Simpson in the American and Canadian press. The Duke of York is looked upon with greater favor by the British Conservatives also because King Edward has leaned toward Liberals and Laborites.

WALLY MOTORS TOWARD CANNES

Edward's Friend Seeking
Seclusion on Riviera at Friend's Home

PARIS, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Mrs.
Wallis Simpson was in France today, speeding across the country
toward seclusion at the villa of friends in Cannes, on the Riviera.

The American divorcee was riding in a black automobile, a hotel
proprietor at Rouen said, with license No. CUL 548. She left Rouen shortly before noon, with blinds drawn, and headed south.

The United Press confirmed in London that King Edward VIII
presented Mrs. Simpson with such a car and with the plate CUL 548.
The king's cars are licensed from 532 through 548.

Her destination was believed to be Villa Lou Vieil, at Cannes, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Herman
Rogers, old friends from America.
Servants at the villa said the Rogers were absent all day, but that "a Mrs. Simpson" was expected there.

Scores of reporters and photographers surrounded the villa Tri-on at Versailles, outside Paris,
when reports circulated Mrs. Simpson would stop tonight with friends there. It is owned by Sir
Charles and Lady Mendil.

The hotel proprietor said Mrs.
Simpson left in a closed car for Cannes.

She was accompanied, he said,
only by her chauffeur and a valet.
Mrs. Simpson was reported to be travelling in a rust-colored, tailored suit with a Tyrolean hat to match. She appeared calm.

A group of French actors and actresses said they saw Mrs. Simpson in the Hotel De La Poste in Rouen.

An actress, Madia Daury, who was reading a French afternoon
picture.

When the actress found the hotel
lobby filled with secret service men, she telephoned to friends in Paris.

BRITISH STEAMER STOPPED AT SEA BY REBEL SHIP

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(UP)—A report to the News Chronicle today said that a British merchant
ship had been seized in the Mediterranean sea by a Spanish rebel warship.

GIBRALTAR, Dec. 4.—(UP)—
The Spanish rebel gunboat Can-
ovas Del Castillo halted a Russian steamer four miles from here
today by firing shots across the ship's bow.

Rebel officers ordered the Russian ship to officers, Spanish Morocco, under escort.

MADRID, Dec. 4.—(UP)—A fleet of 31 rebel bombing planes flew over Madrid at 2 p. m. in perfect formation. It was the biggest display of rebel aerial strength
in the siege, but no bombs were dropped.

COMPROMISE HOPE ENDED BY SPEECH

England's King Must Give Up Mrs. Simpson or Abdicate, Prime Minister Declares as
House of Commons Listens to Talk

'MORGANATIC MARRIAGE IMPOSSIBLE'

Special Law Would Be Refused by Dominions,
Foe of Friendship Tells Parliament

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Prime Minister Stanley
Baldwin, in a statement to the House of Commons today,
on the king's proposed marriage to Mrs. Wallis Simpson, said, "no such thing as a morganatic marriage is known in our law."

The prime minister thus closed the door to any compromise by which the King might marry Mrs. Simpson privately, not as his queen, and still retain the throne.

Abdication Only Alternative

Since the King seems determined to marry Mrs. Simpson, the only alternative apparently would be for him to abdicate.

Baldwin admitted that legislation could be passed
whereby the King's wife would not become queen but said,
"the government is not prepared to introduce such legislation."

"The King requires no
consent from another authority to make his marriage
legal," Baldwin said, "but
the lady he marries necessarily becomes queen."

Regarding a special law
to change that, Baldwin added:
"Any legislation would require
the consent of the dominions and I am satisfied from inquiries I have made that this assent would not be forthcoming."

No Indication Given
The premier gave no indication
of what the King plans to do.

Baldwin's statement was brief
and when he had finished, the
house adjourned at 3:55 p. m., leaving the momentous issue still undecided.

Commons can be called in special session tomorrow; otherwise, the final showdown will wait until Monday.

Churchill Comes To Edward's Aid

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(UP)—
King Edward VIII has decided to fight for his right to marry Mrs.
Wallis Simpson rather than ab-
dicate at once.

In his battle to prevent the cabinet from forcing him off the throne the king has the support,
usually unimpeachable sources
revealed today, of Winston Churchill, the brilliant conservative member of parliament, who
is said to have offered to form
a new cabinet should Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin resign.

Churchill is the leader who has questioned Baldwin twice in the house of commons in the last 24
hours, with an implied warning
to the cabinet to take any "irrevocable action" without informing parliament.

How long the youthful monarch intends to play out his cards
may depend in part on popular
sentiment in the current crisis.
But in any event it appears that
an historic fight, probably the greatest in England's long history, is in the making. All other English kings who have defied
their ministers have lost—some
of them their heads.

The king's decision to fight, reliable sources said, was communicated to other members of the royal family, with the result that Queen Mary threatened to go into strict retirement and the Duke
and Duchess of York threatened
to leave the country if the king
marries Mrs. Simpson.

The Queen's threat presumably means she would become a sorrowful recluse, never again to be seen in public.

SHORT ILLNESS TAKES LIFE OF MRS. SWEARINGEN

Three days' illness of pneumonia

Swearingen, 69, wife of James S.
Swearingen of Jackson township.

monia developed.

pal church with the Rev. L. C.
Sherburne officiating. Burial, which will be private, will be

ters of the American Revolution.

LABOR LEADERS OF EIGHT STATES SEE NEW NRA

Act Believed Only Way to Return Workers to Advantages

CONCERTED ACTION NEAR

Ohio Included in List of Organizations Agreeing

CHICAGO, Dec. 4 — (UP) — Reenactment of a constitutional NRA was projected today by the labor commissioners of eight mid-western states as the only way to regain for workers the accomplishments of the "blue eagle."

"The NRA was only beginning when it died, and it did have wonderful possibilities," said Voyta Wrasche, member of the Wisconsin Industrial Commission and chairman of the Midwest Conference of Labor Commissioners which met here to discuss labor problems.

"It would have solved all our problems. It meant abolition of child labor. It meant shorter hours and higher wages. It meant decent working conditions. It meant all these things at once — not after a long, drawn out attempt to get state legislatures to pass them one by one."

"That's right" was the response from labor department heads from Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio and Illinois.

Certain aspects of the old NRA were criticized by the communists, however.

G. E. Blakeley, labor commissioner of Kansas who was appointed by Gov. Alfred M. Landon, Republican presidential nominee, said he (Blakeley) was "an enthusiastic supporter of the old NRA," and his only complaint "was that it wasn't enforced very well."

WOMAN FOUNDS OWN COMPANY, EARN $50,000

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Miss Vivien Kellems, now in her late 30s, is president of a company, started by herself, which manufactures a new cable grip—an achievement which electrical engineers had said was impossible.

She went about launching her concern nine years ago in a truly feminine fashion—but it worked. She explained: "I just went out and sold a lot of cable grips before we even had a sign of a place in which to manufacture them."

Today her company is paying her $50,000 a year, she said. And she has the distinction of being the first woman ever to address the St. Louis Electrical Board of Trade.

Her brother invented the cable grip which her company produces. It is a gadget of woven steel wires designed to ease the strain of ice, snow and wind on heavy cables. Although Miss Kellems had no knowledge of the problems of manufacturing she did know how to sell.

She organized the company, became its sole owner and president, got a machine shop going to manufacture the cable grips and other products. Some of them are of her own invention.

GIANT BOMBERS TAX NAVY BASES

SAN DIEGO, Cal. (UP)—The problem of housing the navy's new 13-ton flying boats faces officials at North Island air station as the first group of six of the giant ships nears completion here.

The navy has contracted for 110 of the flying boats to be stationed at various strategic bases. Two already have been delivered to the North Island air station at San Diego, but there is not enough hanger space available to accommodate all the smaller planes there.

The problem is more than one of housing.

"A system has to be devised which would enable the flying boats to get away quickly in case of emergency," Lieut. Cecil F. Harper, operations officer at North Island, said. "This type of airship is being manufactured larger every year, and that makes it difficult to figure on 'permanent' hangers."

Capt. Arthur L. Bristol, commanding officer of the Naval Air Station, spent several days at the Pan-American Airways base at Alameda observing methods of housing and handling the trans-Pacific clippers.

The first six of the giant patrol bombers are expected to be completed some time in December and will be flown to Pearl Harbor air station in Hawaii shortly after the first of the year. A second group of six is tentatively scheduled for completion two months later. These ships also will be flown to Pearl Harbor.

EAGLES IN ZOO FIGHT TO DEATH AS LOVE RIVALS

LONDON (UP) — A fight to the death between two love-smitten Bateleur eagles, in which one of the birds dragged its rival to a drinking pool, thrust it in and held it down until it was drowned, was witnessed at the London Zoo.

The two birds were rivals for the affections of a hen eagle, and for a week had waged spasmodic warfare. Then came the climax.

Without warning, both eagles rushed at each other and fought ferociously, using smashing blows with their wings, ripping strokes with their enormous talons and tearing bites with their razor-sharp beaks.

Round and round the cage they went with the object of their affection looking on from a perch above, among four other occupants of the cage.

Suddenly one eagle seized the other in a vise-like grip and dragged it across to the pool of water in the middle of the cage. With a terrific effort it hurled it in, and jumped after it. It landed on the breast of the defeated bird and stood there until it drowned. Then the eagle emerged shook the water from its wings, and flew to the side of the hen eagle.

ASHVILLE

Seven Ashville high school students will participate in the Prince of Peace declamation contest to be held Sunday evening at the Methodist church in Circleville. They are Wilma Creager, Robert Berger, Thomas Buzzard, Kathryn Thompson, Walter Gregg, Thelma Ray and Florence Smith.

John Swoyer returned to Los Angeles, Thursday after spending two weeks with his mother, Mrs. Joanna Swoyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Teegardin are spending several days in Chicago, attending the International Stock Show.

E. A. Snyder, who has been ill at his home for several days is improved.

Miss Helen Bowers, a teacher at Walnut township school, has been unable to teach due to illness.

Funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon for Mrs. Henrietta Beggrow of Lockbourne, who died Tuesday morning. Mrs. Beggrow was a sister of Henry Klamfoth of Ashville.

A taffy pulling party to which the public was invited, was held

Baked Ham With Pineapple Replaces Holiday Fowl

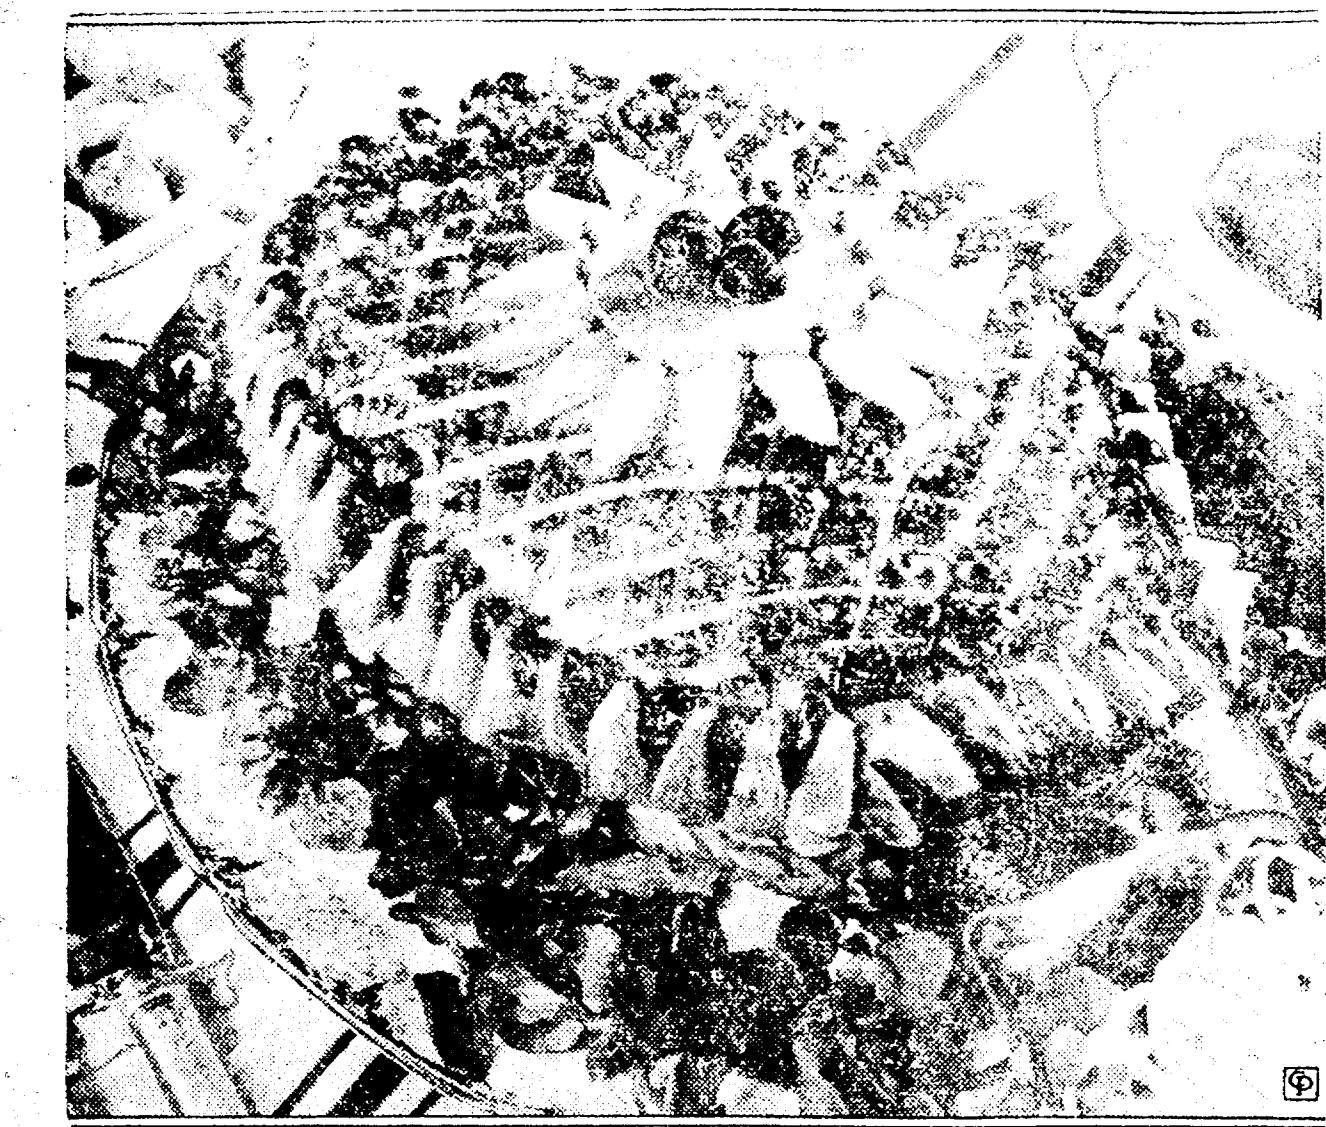

By MRS. MARY MORTON
Menu Hint
Baked Ham With Pineapple Scalloped Potatoes or Baked Sweets
Celery
Molded Tomato Salad
Brussels Sprouts
Plum Pudding Hard Sauce
Coffee Nuts Raisins
Why not serve a ham, such as this, for a change for Christmas dinner? Or cook it for a between-the-holiday dinner, or for serving for supper on New Year's eve or New Year's Day? It is certainly a Christmasy looking dish.

Today's Recipe
BAKED HAM WITH PINEAPPLE Give the ham its preliminary baking or boiling, whichever method you employ. After having removed the rind and scored the fat into neat little squares, allow it to stand overnight with two cups of honey poured over it. Next day add to the honey about a cup of the syrup from a can of sliced pineapple and a cup of gingerale. Insert a whole clove into the center of each square scored in the ham. Place ham in a very slow oven and bake every 20 minutes for an hour, or until the baking period is completed and the outer surface of the ham is evenly browned. Just before serving, garnish the surface of the ham with rings and wedges of sliced pineapple and sections of maraschino cherries. Watercress or sprigs of parsley make an attractive green contrast for the base of the ham.

Another tasty accompaniment for your ham platter may be rings of pineapple heated in their own syrup, to which has been added a bit of spearmint extract, and enough green coloring to give it a nice tint, and allowed to stand overnight or longer in the syrup. Slip a cube of red jelly in the center of each, or you can alternate the rings of milled pineapple with pineapple slices which have been bathed in a cinnamon syrup—merely a handful of red cinnamon candies added to the hot pineapple syrup.

A baked ham may also be garnished with cinnamon apple cups, apples cored and boiled in syrup tinted red and flavored to which has been added red cinnamon candies. Pile the apples high with a sauce made by combining cranberry sauce with crushed pineapple.

All of these accompaniment suggestions for a ham platter may be used equally well with turkey, if you have made this selection for your holiday dinner. If you are stuffing a regal bird, you will be interested in this pineapple stuffing. It is just different enough to make a lasting and favorable impression. Add to your favorite fruit stuffing a cup of well-drained crushed pineapple, or use two cups of soft bread crumbs, one cup partly drained, crushed pineapple, one well-beaten egg, three slices of cooked bacon, cut fine; one-half cup celery, salt, pepper, paprika.

Ham baked with pineapple and decorated for Christmas dinner.

COLBERT STARS WITH M'MURRAY IN SALEM MAID

Miriam Hopkins to Be Interviewed Tonight at 10:45
The appearance of Claudette Colbert and Fred MacMurray in "Maid of Salem," originally scheduled for Hollywood Hotel's program two weeks ago, will be made tonight at 9 o'clock.

Miriam Hopkins of the screen will be interviewed at 10:45 p. m. Friday by Eliza Schallert over NBC.

Saturday, in addition to its football games topped by Notre Dame and Southern California, brings several interesting radio programs, notably a special program by the Reserve Officers' Training Corps of Cornell university at noon over CBS; "Rhythm of the Jute Mill," by Columbia workshop at 8 p. m., and Conrad Mayo, baritone, in Floyd Gibbons' show at 9 p. m.

LANDI TO BE STAR

Elissa Landi comes back to the Radio Theatre next Monday night, Dec. 7, in the role of leading lady in "The Grand Duchess and the Waiter."

In this amusing love story of the Grand Duchess Xenia and the son of a wealthy hotel owner, disguised as a waiter, Miss Landi plays opposite Robert Montgomery, star of the show. The full-hour dramatic broadcast goes on the Columbia network at 9 p. m. (EST), under direction of Cecil B. DeMille.

The Venice-born screen star is making her third appearance on the Radio Theatre. She has previously been heard in "Michael and Mary" and "The Swan." It is her second performance under DeMille's direction. In 1933, she was one of the featured players in "Sign of the Cross," one of the greatest of DeMille productions. Before coming to the United States, she had appeared in many films.

"ALL-BRAN KEEPS ME IN SHAPE EVERY DAY"

"When I had eaten a heavy breakfast, I would feel lousy. After a couple of days of this, I would have to take a laxative."

"One morning I had a dish of ALL-BRAN. Believe me, it kept me in shape every day."—Wm. C. Billings, 1550 19th St., Denver, Colorado.

Why put up with half-sick days, when a delicious cereal will make you feel so good? Because ALL-BRAN has "bulk" which absorbs moisture within the body. Then gently sponges out your system, wipes away the listlessness, the "blues," the headaches.

Scientific tests prove this natural food is both safe and effective—worlds better than taking patent medicines. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Take it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company.

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Baked Ham With Pineapple Replaces Holiday Fowl

Why not serve a ham, such as this, for a change for Christmas dinner? Or cook it for a between-the-holiday dinner, or for serving for supper on New Year's eve or New Year's Day? It is certainly a Christmas looking dish.

Today's Recipe

BAKED HAM WITH PINEAPPLE—Give the ham its preliminary baking or boiling, whichever method you employ. After having removed the rind and scored the fat into neat little squares, allow it to stand overnight with two cups of honey poured over it. Next day add to the honey about a cup of the syrup from a can of sliced pineapple and a cup of gingerale. Insert a whole clove into the center of each square scored in the ham. Place ham in a very slow oven and bake every 20 minutes for an hour, or until the baking period is completed and the outer surface of the ham is evenly browned. Just before serving, garnish the surface of the ham with rings and wedges of sliced pineapple and sections of maraschino cherries. Watercress or sprigs of

Ham baked with pineapple and decorated for Christmas dinner.

Enough for a nice little roasting hen. Do a bit of multiplication for the turkey.

COLBERT STARS WITH M'MURRAY IN SALEM MAID

Miriam Hopkins to Be Interviewed Tonight at 10:45

The appearance of Claudette Colbert and Fred MacMurray in "Maid of Salem," originally scheduled for Hollywood Hotel's program two weeks ago, will be made tonight at 9 o'clock.

Miriam Hopkins of the screen will be interviewed at 10:45 p. m. Friday by Eliza Schallert over NBC.

Saturday, in addition to its football games topped by Notre Dame and Southern California, brings several interesting radio programs, notably a special program by the Reserve Officers' Training Corps of Cornell university at noon over CBS; "Rhythm of the Jute Mill," by Columbia workshop at 8 p. m., and Conrad Mayo, baritone, in Floyd Gibbons' show at 9 p. m.

LANDI TO BE STAR

Elissa Landi comes back to the Radio Theatre next Monday night, Dec. 7, in the role of leading lady in "The Grand Duchess and the Waiter."

In this amusing love story of the Grand Duchess Xenia and the son of a wealthy hotel owner, disguised as a waiter, Miss Landi plays opposite Robert Montgomery, star of the show. The full-hour dramatic broadcast goes on the Columbia network at 9 p. m. (EST), under direction of Cecil B. DeMille.

The Venice-born screen star is making her third appearance on the Radio Theatre. She has previously been heard in "Michael and Mary" and "The Swan". It is her second performance under DeMille's direction. In 1933, she was one of the featured players in "Sign of the Cross," one of the greatest of DeMille productions. Before coming to the United

"ALL-BRAN KEEPS ME IN SHAPE EVERY DAY"

"When I had eaten a heavy breakfast, I would feel lousy. After a couple of days of this, I would have to take a laxative.

"One morning I had a dish of ALL-BRAN. Believe me, it beats any laxative, as it keeps me in shape every day."—Wm. C. Billings, 1330 10th St., Denver, Colorado.

Why put up with half-sick days, when a delicious cereal will make you feel so good? Because ALL-BRAN has "bulk" which absorbs moisture within the body. Then gently sponges out your system, wipes away the listlessness, the "blues," the headaches.

Scientific tests prove this natural food is both safe and effective—worlds better than taking patent medicines. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Take it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company.

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

States, Miss Landi made pictures in London, France, Germany and Sweden.

With Politics Submerged Until Congress Convenes in January Washington Turns to Its "Debs"

Miss Carlisle Patterson Porter

Prominent Washington debutantes of 1936

Photos by Hessler Studio

WASHINGTON, D. C., — With the presidential election a matter of history, the main object of interest among the socially elite in the nation's capital is not the coming session of congress nor President Roosevelt's extension of the New Deal, but the social coming-out season of 1936.

From now until New Year's day the item of first importance in diplomatic and social circles in Washington is: Who is "coming out" and how?

One thing is certain—the Washington debutantes of 1936 will spend more money on their social debuts this year than any set of "debs" has since the halcyon days of 1929.

More Glamor

Elaborate festivities have been planned by this or that society leader for her daughter's "arrival" in official society. So Washington social life, one of the most brilliant in the country, again begins to glitter in something of the manner that it used to in the old days.

But Washington society shakes its head sadly whenever it recalls the "old days," for it generally is admitted that there never will be another debut like that of Helen Lee Doherty, now Mrs. Theodore Wessels, daughter of Henry F. Doherty, Cities Service magnate. That was the affair which was originally scheduled to cost $100,000, but which finally ended up by costing a mere $25,000, so overwhelming was the force of adverse publicity.

In that year bread lines were beginning to form on the streets of American cities.

Toned Down

The Doherty ball plans eventually were scaled down. Even so, the ball probably was the most brilliant in many years. Only one orchestra, instead of the scheduled two, was brought from New York. There were no fans made out of 100 orchids as newspaper writers hinted. The giving away of several automobiles as party favors was omitted from the program. But guests always will remember the magnificent decorations in Washington's Mayflower hotel ballroom. The ballroom was specially repainted and redecorated by the best artisans available for the occasion. The midnight supper of guinea hen breasts will long be remembered, and the guest list which ran into more than a thousand was impressive.

Washington agrees that there will be no debut in 1936 approaching Helen Lee Doherty's although the general level will be well above that of last year and the preceding depression years.

Most prominently mentioned for the top spot of the 1936 season is the scheduled presentation to society of Margot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Angus Garrett. The Garretts will launch their daughter on the social sea at the Sulgrave club which rivals the Mayflower ballroom as "the place" for fashionable debuts.

The expense of the Garrett debut will probably not run more than $5,000. The ball itself will cost $3,500. It is estimated, with a guest list of some 600 socialites. The remainder is to be spent for a gown (from Paris or New York) and for incidental fixings. The gown itself is limited by tradition to certain broad lines of style and color, white being preferred and faint pastel shades being admissible.

Social Secretaries

A social secretary, whose fee in itself is a considerable item, always makes up the guest list, sends out the invitations, hires an orchestra, and makes all the necessary arrangements with the management of the club or the hotel where the party is to be held.

Very few coming out parties will be held in homes this year. That is too much of a responsibility for the parents of the girl concerned. The leading hotels and clubs make a point of having on their payroll expert arrangers who overlook no detail. It is a fine science.

Not every Washington girl will have as much as $5,000 spent on her debut. In the first place the depression is too recent. In the

JURORS DECIDE BRUNGS GUILTY OF CHICK THEFT

Only 30 Minutes Required For 12 to Reach Their Decision

ANOTHER CHARGE PENDING

62 Pounds of Poultry Listed in August 28 Robbery

After deliberating about 30 minutes a common pleas court jury Thursday afternoon convicted Clarence Brungs, city, of burglary and larceny for the theft of 62 pounds of chickens from Riggins' poultry house last August 28. Pearl D. Armstrong, Saltcreek township, was jury foreman.

Another charge of burglary and larceny is pending against Brungs in connection with the theft of $18.40 worth of groceries from George Limebaugh's store, S. Pickaway street, on the same night last August.

Fred Brungs, brother of Clarence, was indicted on the same charges and returned to the Mansfield reformatory as a parole violator.

The trial was held in the law library. Scaffolding has been erected in the common pleas court room for cleaning and redecorating.

With Politics Submerged Until Congress Convenes in January Washington Turns to Its "Debs"

Prominent Washington debutantes of 1936

WASHINGTON, D. C., — With the presidential election a matter of history, the main object of interest among the socially elite in the nation's capital is not the coming session of congress nor President Roosevelt's extension of the New Deal, but the social coming-out season of 1936.

From now until New Year's day the item of first importance in diplomatic and social circles in Washington is: Who is "coming out" and how?

One thing is certain—the Washington debutantes of 1936 will spend more money on their social debuts this year than any set of "debs" has since the halcyon days of 1929.

More Glamor

Elaborate festivities have been planned by this or that society leader for her daughter's "arrival" in official society. So Washington social life, one of the most brilliant in the country, again begins to glitter in something of the manner that it used to in the old days.

But Washington society shakes its head sadly whenever it recalls the "old days", for it generally is admitted that there never will be another debut like that of Helen Lee Doherty, now Mrs. Theodore Wessels, daughter of Henry F. Doherty, Cities Service magnate. That was the affair which was originally scheduled to cost $100,000, but which finally ended up by costing a mere $25,000, so overwhelming was the force of adverse publicity.

In that year broad lines were beginning to form on the streets of American cities.

Toned Down

The Doherty ball plans eventually were scaled down. Even so, the ball probably was the most brilliant in many years. Only one orchestra, instead of the scheduled two, was brought from New York. There were no fans made out of 100 orchids as newspaper writers hinted. The giving away of several automobiles as party favors was omitted from the program. But guests always will remember the magnificent decorations in Washington's Mayflower hotel ballroom. The ballroom was specially repainted and redecorated by the best artisans available for the occasion. The midnight supper of guinea hen breasts will long be remembered, and the guest list which ran into more than a thousand was impressive.

Washington agrees that there will be no debut in 1936 approaching Helen Lee Doherty's although the general level will be well above that of last year and the preceding depression years.

Most prominently mentioned for the top spot of the 1936 season is the scheduled presentation to society of Margot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Angus Garrett. The Garretts will launch their daughter on the social sea at the Sulgrave club which rivals the Mayflower ballroom as "the place" for fashionable debuts.

The expense of the Garrett debut will probably not run more than $5,000. The ball itself will cost $3,500, it is estimated, with a guest list of some 600 socialites. The remainder is to be spent for a gown (from Paris or New York) and for incidental fixings. The gown itself is limited by tradition to certain broad lines of style and color, white being preferred and faint pastel shades being admissible.

Social Secretaries

A social secretary, whose fee in itself is a considerable item, always makes up the guest list, sends out the invitations, hires an orchestra, and makes all the necessary arrangements with the management of the club or the hotel where the party is to be held.

Very few coming out parties will be held in homes this year. That is too much of a responsibility for the parents of the girl concerned. The leading hotels and clubs make a point of having on their payroll expert arrangers who overlook no detail. It is a fine science.

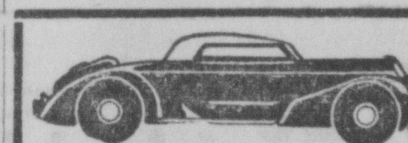

Not every Washington girl will have as much as $5,000 spent on her debut. In the first place the depression is too recent. In the second place Washington society, with the New Deal in Power, can scarcely lend itself to the fancy excesses it might have indulged in under a more aristocratically-minded administration.

Less Pretentious

There will, of course, be unpretentious debuts at the smaller hotels, at restaurants, and even at tea shops. Luncheon debuts and tea debuts are an offspring of the depression, and they promise to persist this year.

Among the other more prominent debutantes of the 1936 season will be Miss Alice Tuckerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tuckerman; Miss Carlisle Porter, daughter of General and Mrs.

OPEN LETTERS

TO MAYOR W. J. GRAHAM

DEAR SIR: Saturday you will have an opportunity to give the new parking regulation a real test. Your system of releasing violators is fair enough for a few days, but there should be a limit to the time it is used. Unless the teeth in the law are exercised the signs will be worthless. The majority of the farmers who visit our city on Saturdays favor the regulation. It gives them a place to park in the downtown district while they do their shopping. They consider two hours long enough for a downtown parking space and if they wish to stay longer they can move out of the restricted zone. Council established the regulation, police are tagging the cars, and the successful operation of the law rests with you.

CIRCUITEER

TO STOUTSVILLE FARMERS

FOLK: The act of good will you performed last week at the home of the unfortunate Chambers family was splendid. The 65 of you who went to the home of your neighbor did a job that will never be forgotten. To complete the corn shredding task stopped by the untimely death of a member of the Chambers family is worthy of much praise, but the neighborly feeling of your action even eclipses the task itself.

CIRCUITEER

TO COUNTY YOUTHS

YOUNG PEOPLE: The annual Prince of Peace contest, sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches, will be held Sunday evening in the Methodist Episcopal church, and it behooves as many of you as possible to attend it. The work of nearly a dozen boys and girls from various parts of the county promises to be interesting. To deliver an oration such as these boys and girls will do demands much time, effort and ability, and their attempt to gain higher honors for themselves and their schools and churches should be appreciated. Their subjects are usually assigned by the church council, all dealing with a world-wide effort to maintain peace. Everyone will be welcome to hear the addresses, with no admission charged.

TO ROUNDTOWNERS

DEAR FOLK: Seventy-five children were on the absent list in the city schools Wednesday after the heavy snowfall, because they did not have proper shoes to wear. Mayor W. J. Graham, through co-operation with school officials, has issued a general appeal for residents, lodges and other organizations in the city to aid these children. This is a deplorable condition and citizens should aid in every way possible in the campaign to furnish proper footwear for these children. Parents who have shoes their children have outgrown should take them to the mayor's office for distribution. Donations will be received for repairing shoes and purchasing new ones. In past years the Board of Education purchased many shoes for needy children but under present regulations this practice has been stopped. In addition to children losing out on their school work, the schools receive less for operation as payments under the foundation program are based on average daily attendance.

CIRCUITEER

TO OLD TOY OWNERS

CHILDREN, PARENTS: Take old toys to the fire department as early as possible. Residents of Circleville have always responded liberally to the toy campaign and it is certain to be a success again this year. Only a few weeks remain before Christmas. It takes considerable time to make a new leg for a small table, repair and dress a doll, and make repairs on the hundreds of toys sent to the department. In former years there has always been a last-week rush on the department and it was practically impossible to complete all the work in time for the Christmas distribution. The toys are needed right away, so take them to the department and no time will be lost in re-juvenating them. If you have no way to deliver them call firemen and they will call for them.

CIRCUITEER

TO MOTORISTS

DRIVERS: A warning by the sheriff's department this week that the season has arrived when automobile traffic is dangerous because of slippery roads was timely. Because of rain, sleet and snow many of our thoroughfares have become treacherous, and only extreme care on the part of all of you will reduce the ever-growing traffic toll. Much work on the New Holland-Williamsport highway has cut down the number of wrecks along that stretch. Regardless of how much care the highway workers take to make the roads safe, it remains for the driving public to exercise care or their labor has gone for naught.

CIRCUITEER

TO SHERIFF RADCLIFF

OFFICIAL: Your election as treasurer of the Ohio Sheriffs' association is another feather in your cap as one of the state's leading law enforcement officials. Pickaway county ranks among the highest in the state in the matter of criminal detection and it is only proper that its sheriff should rank among the highest.

CIRCUITEER

TO MR. AND MRS. WEAVER

FRIENDS: Observance of the fiftieth year of your married life is a noteworthy occasion and it is with great pleasure that I congratulate you. Many of your friends and relatives visited your home to pay you tribute, and scores more sent you notes of friendship. May you continue as outstanding citizens of your Walnut township community for many years more.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

If the Americas could be welded together in a general policy designed to starve Mars out, would it be possible for the remainder of the world to keep a first class modern war going for very long? The Pan-American conference at Buenos Aires looks toward a program which includes genuine neutrality, from the Great Lakes to Cape Horn, if overseas belligerency develops as seems likely today. It is a conference held in exceptionally good faith for an international gathering. Europe apparently did not learn its lesson from the last conflict. It professes to shrink from another one, but its actions indicate an inclination, even if rather reluctantly, for more of the same. The Americans DID learn their lesson. They not only do not wish to participate again (such of them as did before); they are fearful of a fresh outbreak abroad, lest they be dragged in.

Now, they WILL be dragged in, and they know it, if the thing starts and they continue trading with the belligerents, as they did the last time.

ANYTHING WAR MATERIAL
 But the theory is that, to remain neutral, they need to embargo shipments to the belligerents of war supplies.

The weakness of this theory is that almost ANYTHING, shipped to a belligerent, is war material. For example, are raw materials, such as rubber, oil, tin, tungsten, etc., to a belligerent as actual war material? Or are they merely "raw materials" which help him to hold out.

ALL LACK SOMETHING

Germany, for example, can turn out plenty of munitions and gases, but the Germans have to import the raw materials for them. France is in a similar fix. Italy has not much of anything; it even has to save up its worn-out safety razor blades.

There is coal in the Ruhr, but not enough; oil in Rumania, but not enough.

 Russia's resources are almost inexhaustible, but undeveloped. Spain's strife is almost incredibly vicious, but on a small scale. There can be a terrific battle or two—but a campaign? Not without outside help, one would say.

ITALY, JAPAN
 It made Italy gasp to supply its little conquest of Ethiopia. The remainder of continental Europe scarcely has the resource to amount to threats within itself. Japan is quarrelsome enough but it has trouble in creating battleships, though they look all right, that will float right side up. It has not consolidated itself in Manchukuo, either.

COUNTRIES THAT HAVE
 England alone of the overseas powers has back-countries to support it—Canada and Australia and New Zealand, and whatever India and South Africa may be worth.

The Americas are the touchstone—Yankee supplies of everything! Argentine meat! Brazilian cotton! Chilean nitrates! Colombian oil!

Some other countries have got the same things, but they are undeveloped; therefore unavailable. The countries which possess them are in a position to maintain a whiphand on a prolonged war, except with old-fashioned weapons, like swords and pikes and carving knives.

But will they stand pat, as neutrals?

The BLOODHOUNDS BAY

By WALTER S. MASTERMAN

COPYRIGHT, RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:
 Jack Reid, only witness to the mysterious murder of Sir Henry Severing in the chapel of his ancient abbey, is in the chapel to steal a jeweled cross. Reid could raise no alarm at the time of the murder for fear of incriminating himself. Before Richard Selden is summoned from Scotland Yard, Reid, who has posed as an itinerant painter working at the abbey, Colonel Graham, a neighbor, and Eric Colindale, agent of the estate, trace Sir Henry's body to his father's coffin with the aid of bloodhounds, Selden and Hutchins, the local officer, interview Colindale and Reid, James, the butler, and Lady Hilda, who is in love with Colindale. Then, when they return to the inn, Mrs. Thornton, the housekeeper, comes to them with information and they question her. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.)

CHAPTER 14

"I DID NOT see the actual light in the corridor leading to the chapel," Mrs. Thornton continued. "I saw the flashes on the wall, as I had returned to bed."

"How long after the first light was the second?"

"Perhaps an hour—I can't really say as I may have dozed off. But of course I was awakened by the ring."

"Of course, that would have roused you," Selden said calmly; and Hutchins cast a quick glance at his young colleague, for this was news to both of them.

"Yes, the ring must have woken me. It was very loud."

"You have no idea who rang?"

Mrs. Thornton took the cigarette from her mouth and stared at the detective in surprise. "Why, I thought you knew—Lady Severing rang."

"I wasn't quite certain," Selden said, without a flicker of an eyelash. Only a faint smile, to which Hutchins played round his mouth.

"After having seen the lights, not from vulgar curiosity, you understand, I put on a dressing gown and went to see. I thought, of course, that Sir Henry wanted James."

"Naturally," Selden commented. "I was going back to my room, not having seen anyone, when the door opened that leads from the servants' quarters to the rest of the house. It is usually kept locked at night."

"Why?" Hutchins intervened, feeling that he was rather out of things.

"Well"—Mrs. Thornton assumed an air of embarrassment—"perhaps I should not say, but Lady Severing doesn't like the servants wandering about the house at night, or other people coming into our part of the house. James came through the door."

"It was naturally a surprise to see him," Selden said.

"It was more than that," she answered with heat. "I had on only a dressing gown, and my hair—I didn't know where to look. James, I must say, was most discreet. He turned away and locked the door, so that I could at least make my way into the shadow of the staircase."

"He had a light, I suppose?"

"No, he had switched on the electric light as he came through the door, but when he saw my condition, like a true gentleman, he switched it off. He told me very kindly that I need not be alarmed, as Lady Severing had rung the bell, having heard some noise in the house and being nervous. She was afraid of burglars, but James had reassured her and had gone round the doors."

"And that was all?"

"All I heard, Mr. Selden, but I can guess a lot."

"I am very much obliged. Now, will you take a word of advice from me. Your information is of the highest value, but it would be wiser if you say nothing whatever about it to anyone."

A look of disappointment came to her face. But am I not to give this evidence at the inquest? I thought the coroner would want it."

"The coroner is there to find the cause of death, not to investigate the crime," Selden's voice had become stern and hard, in a manner he knew how to assume.

"But why not?" the woman protested.

"Because, Mrs. Thornton, it is extremely likely that if you did so you would suffer the same fate as Sir Henry Severing."

"Good gracious me!" She turned suddenly pallid, and her eyes showed fright growing in them like shadows on a lake.

"Now you understand. What you have told us will be quite safe with the inspector and myself. I suppose you will be leaving the Abbey after this?"

Mrs. Thornton tossed her head. "I have given Lady Severing a month's notice, according to the terms of my engagement, in order to be able to attend the inquest. I shall most decidedly not stay any longer after my notice expires, even though they implored me to do so."

"If you have any definite statement to make, and are prepared to make a sworn declaration, let me know," Hutchins said with official mannerisms.

That seemed to frighten the woman.

"But am I not to give evidence at the inquest?"

That seemed to frighten the woman.

"No, I would rather not do that; only there have been such goings-on at the Abbey that I don't wonder there has been a judgment on the place. First the love affair between Lady Hilda and Colindale—"

Selden said that she was wound up, and nothing would satisfy her except to get it off her mind, so he resigned himself to listen.

"And then this horrible murder. I know for a fact that several times Sir Henry—the late Sir Henry—that is—has been down that corridor to the chapel at night, and I ask you what he was doing there, he a godless man who never attended church while I was there. No, Mr. Selden, it's my opinion that he ought to have been murdered before, and by them as would gain it, but a merciful Providence spared his life. . . ."

She paused for breath, and Hutchins moved restlessly. "All this is very vague, you know, Mrs. Thornton. You can't tell us anything actually bearing on the crime?"

"I am telling you what I know and suspect," She turned on Hutchins vigorously.

"Please go on," Selden said. "It is most interesting."

Mrs. Thornton seemed rather put out of countenance. "I don't know anything more, but keep your eye on the children. If it hadn't been for my care I don't believe they would have lived as long as they have done, and mark my words, now that Sir Henry has gone, the next ones will be the twins, poor lambs."

Selden tapped the table thoughtfully. Did this vindictive creature really know anything, or was she just trying to make mischief? Well, she had served her turn and there was nothing more to be got from her.

"Thank you very much," he said, holding out his hand. "We are both much obliged to you for coming. I suppose you will be getting another situation?"

She tossed her head with a gesture of contempt. "Certainly not, Mr. Selden. I have no need to work. I merely stayed on at the Abbey because I had been there for many years, and liked the place. I shall now retire, and perhaps I may open a private hotel for gentlemen."

"I wish you luck," Selden remarked, conducting her to the door.

"What do you think of her, Selden?" Hutchins said with a genial laugh. "Bit of a liar, eh?"

"No, I don't think she's a liar in this case, at any rate. She is a nasty type, and vindictive, as you can see. Directly she was given notice, for that, I take it, is what really happened, she came straight here. That's why it was foolish of Lady Severing to get rid of her right away."

"Then, there's been some pretty hard lying somewhere," Hutchins affirmed vigorously.

"Very; that's what we have to find out."

"I suppose it will all be threshed out at the inquest," Hutchins said wearily.

"That is exactly what I want to avoid. I don't want anything to come out at the inquest; inquests are a damned nuisance! The Press get hold of all the information and it is broadcast everywhere."

Hutchins shook his great head. "I don't like it, Selden. It's not what I've been accustomed to; not but what I don't agree with you about coroners and their courts, but it looks like aiding and abetting."

"Nonsense, man! Have you any arrest pending? Can you build up a case against anyone? Why, we should be simply showing our hands. Didn't you see that I frightened that woman on purpose to prevent her saying anything?"

"Well, you are in charge, you'll be there and can do what you like," Hutchins grumbled.

Selden laid his hand on the other's arm. "No, Hutchins, my friend, that's just where you are wrong. That very efficient and trustworthy officer, Inspector Hutchins of the Sussex constabulary, will be there, and I can leave matters with perfect confidence in his hands. The less investigation at this stage the better."

The inspector stared at him open-mouthed. "Well, of course, if you wish me to do so, I will carry on, but what are you going to do?"

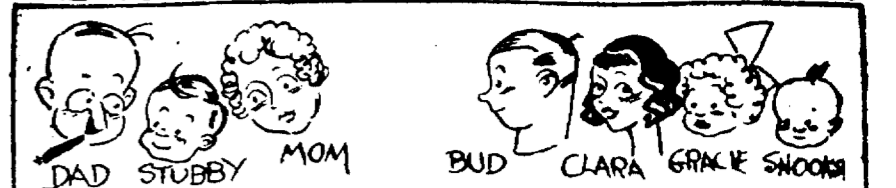

"I am returning to London at once, that is, tomorrow morning."

"Had enough of it?" Hutchins said with a laugh.

"For the present, yes; but there is something behind all this, and I shall have to make a lot of inquiries."

DIET AND HEALTH

Increasing Span of Life in the Adolescent Period

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE YEARS from about 12 in the female or 14 in the male to about 20 are troublesome years. Growth is rapid, maturity of the reproductive organs occurs, the boy or girl begins to move in a new and strange world. It is always a period of alternating happiness and melancholy.

Medical science, in conjunction with other social sciences, has done much to make it not only healthier, but more endurable, for the young person with problems natural in this period can get much help from modern psychology, and physicians are especially interested in those methods. Modern psychology has entirely changed the attitude of the teacher to the pupil, and undoubtedly this attitude is more friendly and sympathetic than it was in the days when most of the readers of this column were in school.

Schools, to a much greater extent, bring outdoor exercise and development of the body in this formative period to the whole class of students more than they used to, and this is also an advantage, not only on the purely physical side, but on the mental side. It not only makes life longer, but more endurable.

Children Freed From Labor
 The working conditions which prevailed in the early nineteenth century are unthinkable at present, and freeing children from labor until the age of 18 comes in the same category with the new understanding of their problems which has been inculcated into school work.

In the realm of physical disease, as we pointed out last week, one great advantage is the recognition that tuberculosis is liable to begin at these periods, and by proper examination of large groups of young people in school, those who have a tendency in this direction are segregated and treated so that the tendency is not allowed to develop. We can look forward to the time when the great battle of tuberculosis will occur in this early adolescent period rather than where it has been fought at the ages from 20 to 35.

In childhood and adolescence, also, every precaution should be taken to avoid rheumatism. Except in the North Atlantic and Canadian border states this disease is not very frequent in the United States. It is a disease of winter, and proper protection against cold and wet will do much to prevent an attack. The danger is, of course, not so much the rheumatism itself, as the subsequent effects on the heart which may be carried from adolescence into middle age. For that reason, when an attack does occur, a long period of convalescence of six weeks to two months should be observed in order that a minimum amount of damage is left on the heart structure.

OPEN LETTERS

TO MAYOR W. J. GRAHAM

DEAR SIR: Saturday you will have an opportunity to give the new parking regulation a real test. Your system of releasing violators is fair enough for a few days, but there should be a limit to the time it is used. Unless the teeth in the law are exercised the signs will be worthless. The majority of the farmers who visit our city on Saturdays favor the regulation. It gives them a place to park in the downtown district while they do their shopping. They consider two hours long enough for a downtown parking space and if they wish to stay longer they can move out of the restricted zone. Council established the regulation, police are tagging the cars, and the successful operation of the law rests with you.

CIRCUITEER

TO STOUTSVILLE FARMERS

FOLK: The act of good will you performed last week at the home of the unfortunate Chambers family was splendid. The 65 of you who went to the home of your neighbor did a job that will never be forgotten. To complete the corn shredding task stopped by the untimely death of a member of the Chambers family is worthy of much praise, but the neighborly feeling of your action even eclipses the task itself.

CIRCUITEER

TO COUNTY YOUTHS

YOUNG PEOPLE: The annual Prince of Peace contest, sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches, will be held Sunday evening in the Methodist Episcopal church, and it behooves as many of you as possible to attend it. The work of nearly a dozen boys and girls from various parts of the county promises to be interesting. To deliver an oration such as these boys and girls will do demands much time, effort and ability, and their attempt to gain higher honors for themselves and their schools and churches should be appreciated. Their subjects are usually assigned by the church council, all dealing with a world-wide effort to maintain peace. Everyone will be welcome to hear the addresses, with no admission charged.

CIRCUITEER

DEAR FOLK: Seventy-five children were on the absent list in the city schools Wednesday after the heavy snowfall, because they did not have proper shoes to wear. Mayor W. J. Graham, through co-operation with school officials, has issued a general appeal for residents, lodges and other organizations in the city to aid these children. This is a deplorable condition and citizens should aid in every way possible in the campaign to furnish proper footwear for these children. Parents who have shoes their children have outgrown should take them to the mayor's office for distribution. Donations will be received for repairing shoes and purchasing new ones. In past years the Board of Education purchased many shoes for needy children but under present regulations this practice has been stopped. In addition to children losing out on their school work, the schools receive less for operation as payments under the foundation program are based on average daily attendance.

CIRCUITEER

TO OLD TOY OWNERS

CHILDREN, PARENTS: Take old toys to the fire department as early as possible. Residents of Circleville have always responded liberally to the toy campaign and it is certain to be a success again this year. Only a few weeks remain before Christmas. It takes considerable time to make a new leg for a small table, repair and dress a doll, and make repairs on the hundreds of toys sent to the department. In former years there has always been a last-week rush on the department and it was practically impossible to complete all the work in time for the Christmas distribution. The toys are needed right away, so take them to the department and no time will be lost in rejuvenating them. If you have no way to deliver them call firemen and they will call for them.

CIRCUITEER

TO MOTORISTS

DRIVERS: A warning by the sheriff's department this week that the season has arrived when automobile traffic is dangerous because of slippery roads was timely. Because of rain, sleet and snow many of our thoroughfares have become treacherous, and only extreme care on the part of all of you will reduce the ever-growing traffic toll. Much work on the New Holland-Williamsport highway has cut down the number of wrecks along that stretch. Regardless of how much care the highway workers take to make the roads safe, it remains for the driving public to exercise care or their labor has gone for naught.

CIRCUITEER

TO SHERIFF RADCLIFF

OFFICIAL: Your election as treasurer of the Ohio Sheriffs' association is another feather in your cap as one of the state's leading law enforcement officials. Pickaway county ranks among the highest in the state in the matter of criminal detection and it is only proper that its sheriff should rank among the highest.

CIRCUITEER

TO MR. AND MRS. WEAVER

FRIENDS: Observance of the fiftieth year of your married life is a noteworthy occasion and it is with great pleasure that I congratulate you. Many of your friends and relatives visited your home to pay you tribute, and scores more sent you notes of friendship. May you continue as outstanding citizens of your Walnut township community for many years more.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

If the Americas could be welded together in a general policy designed to starve Mars out, would it be possible for the remainder of the world to keep a first class modern war going for very long? The Pan-American conference at Buenos Aires looks toward a program which includes genuine neutrality, from the Great Lakes to Cape Horn, if overseas belligerency develops as seems likely today. It is a conference held in exceptionally good faith for an international gathering. Europe apparently did not learn its lesson from the last conflict. It professes to shrink from another one, but its actions indicate an inclination, even if rather reluctantly, for more of the same. The Americans DID learn their lesson. They not only do not wish to participate again (such of them as did before); they are fearful of a fresh outbreak abroad, lest they be dragged in.

ANYTHING WAR MATERIAL

But the theory is that, to remain neutral, they need to embargo shipments to the belligerents only of war supplies.

The weakness of this theory is that almost ANYTHING, shipped to a belligerent, is war material. Foodstuffs for example, are as important to a belligerent as actual powder, shot, TNT and poison gas. Foodstuffs help him to hold out,

A counter-belligerent is sure to see it so. From his standpoint he is right. HE says that foodstuffs are an aid to his enemy and seizes them. The neutral replies that they are not contraband of war and resents the seizure. Thereupon the neutral and one of the belligerents immediately are embroiled.

Thus it would seem that the only recourse for a neutral, determined to REMAIN neutral, is to bar shipments of ANYTHING to ANY belligerent.

ANGERS NEUTRALS

Of course such an embargo must be violently infuriating to a neutral shipper, offered fancy prices by a belligerent power for his goods.

It is doubtful that it could be made to stick. But assume that it could. On that assumption, could the Old World folk, shut off from New World supplies, go on fighting in the fashion in which they have been accustomed to fight?

American military men tell me that they think not.

ALL LACK SOMETHING

Germany, for example, can turn out plenty of munitions and gases, but the Germans have to import the raw materials for them. France is in a similar fix. Italy has not much of anything; it even has to save up its worn-out safety razor blades.

There is coal in the Ruhr, but not enough; oil in Rumania, but not enough. Russia's resources are almost inexhaustible, but undeveloped.

Spain's strife is almost incredibly vicious, but on a small scale. There can be a terrific battle or two—but a campaign? Not without outside help, one would say.

ITALY, JAPAN

It made Italy gasp to supply its little conquest of Ethiopia.

The remainder of continental Europe scarcely has the resource to amount to threats within itself. Japan is quarrelsome enough but it has trouble in creating battle-ships, though they look all right, that will float right side up. It has not consolidated itself in Manchukuo, either.

COUNTRIES THAT HAVE

England alone of the overseas powers has back-countries to support it—Canada and Australia and New Zealand, and whatever India and South Africa may be worth. The Americas are the touchstone—Yankee supplies of everything! Argentine meat! Brazilian cotton! Chilean nitrates! Colombian oil!

Some other countries have got the same things, but they are undeveloped; therefore unavailable.

The countries which possess them are in a position to maintain a whiphand on a prolonged war, except with old-fashioned weapons, like swords and pikes and carving knives.

But will they stand pat, as neutrals?

The BLOODHOUNDS BAY

By WALTER S. MASTERMAN
COPYRIGHT: RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:
Jack Reid, only witness to the mysterious murder of Sir Henry Severing in the chapel of his ancient abbey, is a ne'er-do-well who has lived by his wits. In the chapel to steal a jeweled cross, Reid could raise no alarm at the time of the murder for fear of incriminating himself. Before Richard Selden is summoned from Scotland Yard, Reid, who has posed as an itinerant painter working at the abbey, Colonel Graham, a neighbor and Eric Colindale, agent of the estate, trace Sir Henry's body to his father's coffin with the aid of bloodhounds. Selden and Hutchins, the local officer, interview Colindale and Reid, James, the butler, and Lady Hilda, who is in love with Colindale. Then, when they return to the inn, Mrs. Thornton, the housekeeper, comes to them with information and they question her. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 14
"I DID NOT see the actual fight in the corridor leading to the chapel," Mrs. Thornton continued. "I saw the flashes on the wall, as I had returned to bed."
"How long after the first light was the second?"
"Perhaps an hour—I can't really say as I may have dozed off. But of course I was awakened by the ring."
"Of course, that would have roused you," Selden said calmly; and Hutchins cast a quick glance at his young colleague, for this was news to both of them.
"Yes, the ring must have woken me. It was very loud."
"You have no idea who rang?"
Mrs. Thornton took the cigarette from her mouth and stared at the detective in surprise. "Why, I thought you knew—Lady Severing rang."
"I wasn't quite certain," Selden said, without a flicker of an eye-lash. Only a faint smile, to which Hutchins was becoming accustomed, played round his mouth.

DIET AND HEALTH

Increasing Span of Life in the Adolescent Period

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
THE YEARS from about 12 in the female or 14 in the male to about 20 are troublesome years. Growth is rapid, maturity of the reproductive organs occurs.

Medical science, in conjunction with other social forces, has done much to make it not only healthier, but more endurable, for the young person with problems natural in this period can get much help from modern psychology, and physicians are especially interested in those methods. Modern psychology has entirely changed the attitude of the teacher to the pupil, and undoubtedly this attitude is more friendly and sympathetic than it was in the days when most of the readers of this column were in school.

Schools, to a much greater extent, bring outdoor exercise and development of the body in this formative period to the whole class of students more than they used to, and this is also an advantage, not only on the purely physical side, but on the mental side. It not only makes life longer, but more endurable.

Children Freed From Labor
The working conditions which prevailed in the early nineteenth century are unthinkable at present, and freeing children from labor until the age of 18 comes in the same category with the new understanding of their problems which has been inculcated into school work.

In the realm of physical disease, as we pointed out last week, one great advantage is the recognition that tuberculosis is liable to begin at these periods, and by proper examination of large groups of young people in school, those who have a tendency in this direction are segregated and treated so that the tendency is not allowed to develop. We can look forward to the time when the great battle of tuberculosis will occur in this early adolescent period rather than where it has been fought at the ages from 20 to 35.

In childhood and adolescence, also, every precaution should be taken to avoid rheumatism. Except in the North Atlantic and Canadian border states this disease is not very frequent in the United States. It is a disease of winter, and proper protection against cold and wet will do much to prevent an attack. The danger is, of course, not so much the rheumatism itself, as the subsequent effects on the heart which may be carried from adolescence into middle age. For that reason, when an attack does occur, a long period of convalescence of six weeks to two months should be observed in order that a minimum amount of damage is left on the heart structure.

All-Lace Slips Important In Fashion

MANY OF the loveliest silk and satin slips are lace-trimmed, but the newest and most important change in slips is the arrival of the all-lace one. The all-lace slip hangs much more comfortably under velvet or wool dresses, and the lace does not cling to the fabric of the dress.

The slip pictured is of fine white cotton lace in a novelty pattern. It is exceedingly attractive under a sheer blouse as well as under a dress.

Lingerie is among the preferred gifts at Christmas time. A girl or woman may have too many books, pocketbooks, what-nots for her home, perfume, etc., but she can hardly have too many sets of dainty underthings, including slips and negligees. Black lingerie is still high style, but while making gifts it is well worth considering, as any woman would like a set in black, although she might hesitate to buy them for herself.

"The Education of the Negro." Mrs. Leon Van Vliet and Miss Estelle Grimes offered a piano duet, "The Shepherd Boy," by Mrs. Fred Nicholas told of Christmas in Lavinia, Alaska; Miss Estelle Grimes of Potawatamie, Indian Methodist Mission, Mayetta, Kansas, and Newberry Avenue Center, Chicago, Illinois, by Mrs. Ulm. AT THE CIRCLE

Blanche Mehaffey, cast as the heroine, Madge Harron, in the new Steiner Western, "North of Arizona," starring Jack Perrin, at the Circle Theatre, Friday and Saturday was especially selected for this role by director Harry S. Miss Mehaffey, whose work in the character won her golden tributes from the press critics, was exactly equipped physically as well as dramatically for the role.

She was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, July 28, 1907, is just five feet, three inches tall, weighs barely 119 pounds, has lustrous hair of the real Titian red, and gray-blue eyes. She received her stage training in the "Follies of 1923".

Here's New Way To Initial Linens!

PATTERN 5749

Here's an exciting new way to initial linens—with crocheted letters that you can make in varied sizes according to the thread and hook you take. Used as insets in towels, pillow cases, sheets or whatever, they make for a "showy" effect, and may be further enhanced by a bit of flowery stitchery. There are enough cut-work motifs to make two pairs of towels or pillow cases or two scarfs. In pattern 5749 you will find directions and charts for a complete alphabet; a transfer pattern of two motifs 5 1/2 x 8 1/2 inches and two motifs 5 1/2 x 6 inches; directions for use of initials; illustrations of all stitches used.

MARIAN MARTIN PATTERN

PATTERN 9108

Put it on early in the morning, this spirited wash frock, and let its trim, comfy lines keep you spruce and smart looking throughout your busiest day! Don't you like the jaunty puff of the yoke-sleeves? They may be flared instead, if you prefer. . . . Then, too, see the flattery of the turn-back collar and V-neckline — all topping the simplest of bodices! You'll find the perky patch pockets a great convenience for everything from pins to keys, and they also serve as interesting accent for the trim skirt. Even though you've never "sewed a fine seam" before, you'll find Pattern 9108 so delightfully easy to cut, fit, and stitch, that you'll be making it up in many differently colored cotton versions. Complete Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9108 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER.

AT THE CIRCLE

Blanche Mehaffey, cast as the heroine, Madge Harron, in the new Steiner Western, "North of Arizona," starring Jack Perrin, at the Circle Theatre, Friday and Saturday was especially selected for this role by director Harry S. Webb, who was insistent that a girl of the petite Venus type should play the part.

Miss Mehaffey, whose work in the character won her golden tributes from the press critics, was exactly equipped physically as well as dramatically for the role. She was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, July 28, 1907, is just five feet, three inches tall, weighs barely 119 pounds, has lustrous hair of the real Titian red, and gray-blue eyes. She received her stage training in the "Follies of 1923".

AT THE GRAND

Anne Nagel, started on the way to full-fledged stardom, hopes that her radio acting will be entirely for the motion picture camera.

In "Here Comes Carter!" the First National picture which comes to the Grand theatre on Friday, the 21-year-old Bostonian sings and acts for a radio station. In the story, she's a sensational success on the air. Yet in real life she has never been inside a broadcasting station.

MOON JOINT DEFENDANT

WABASH, Ind. (UP) — John W. Chamberlain, farmer, has filed suit against a local trucker for the loss of a load of cattle. The night the trucker was driving the cattle to Chicago a fine moon shone. He mistook the gleam of the El river for a shimmering pavement and turned of the bridge into the river.

Pheasant Wise As Hunters

SUTTER, Cal. (UP) — The local pheasants are getting just as wise as the pheasant hunters. While most hunters were miles away taking advantage of the open season, a magnificent pheasant cock walked into town and enjoyed itself until it was time for the hunters to return.

TRAINING TABLE SOUGHT

One Free Meal Daily May Win League Support

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Officials of the Big Ten, severest critics of subsidizing in intercollegiate football, convened today to draw up schedules for spring sports and listen for the first time to a plan offering alumni aid to superior prep school athletes.

The scheduling and naming of sites for both conference track and field meets in the opening session today was pushed into the background by the expected death over the Reynolds subsidizing plan before faculty representatives Saturday.

Prof. Robert L. Reynolds, author of the plan already approved by the University of Wisconsin, will make a personal defense of his plan to award scholarships on the basis of examinations in sports and studies made at the end of a six weeks institute for college prospects.

Outlaw Vote Seen

This is a direct violation of the conference code and the Big Ten likely will outlaw the proposal with little argument. Several coaches, however, said the forum might indicate enough liberal trend around the conference to push through approval of training tables for football players.

First indication that the controversial training table might become a major issue appeared with early arrivals for the conference.

Athletic Director Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson of Northwestern said he would advocate that each school "serve one meal a day to football players." This would be dinner, following practice.

There was no comment from representatives of the University of Michigan, where a campus battle rages over the issue.

Although all coaches agreed on a one-meal-a-day plan last winter, faculty representatives vetoed it because it gave athletes outside help.

PLAYER MARKET AT STANDSTILL AS DEALS FALLS

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 4.—(UP)—Activities in the player market were virtually at a standstill today with the major leagues leaving for their own meeting in New York.

Several big deals were still on tap, but indications were that no further action was likely at the minor league meeting which ended its 5th annual convention today. Results may be expected at the major league meeting at New York Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday on the following deals:

Sale of Dizzy Dean, somewhat cooled off by Branch Rickey's fancy quotations but still on the market; the New York Giants-Chicago Cubs trade, involving outfielder Hank Leiber, sought by the Cubs, and Third Baseman Stanley Hack, coveted by the Giants; Brooklyn-Pittsburgh deal, with negotiations now at the point where even Van Mungo, Dodgers' star pitcher, may be involved.

Guessing what Commissioner K. M. Landis may do about the Bob Feller case continues to be the favorite pastime here. The baseball men can agree on only one point, that Landis is confronted by the most important decision of his career.

Feller, Cleveland's 19-year-old pitching sensation, as a free agent, will bring a sum approaching $100,000 for his signature on a contract.

Landis has delved deeply into the Feller case.

Hall and Sherman Top Athletic Club's Card

The first high class boxing and wrestling show in Circleville history will be presented Monday evening when Al Haft, Columbus impressario, sends a stable of gruntes to the Athletic club gymnasium. The card is sponsored by the C. A. C. and starts at 8:30 o'clock.

The feature event will find Stacy Hall, former Ohio State university and Big Ten Star, meeting Pete Sherman, of Topeka, Kan., one of the ring's tough boys. This bout is scheduled to go an hour with one fall as the quota.

Other wrestling matches will put Sandy McDonald, Glasgow, Scotland, in the same ring with Henry Hill, of Bismarck, N. D. and Eddie Watson, pride of the Strawberry board, against tough Spike Ashby, of Flint, Mich. Both these bouts are one fall with a 30-minute limit.

Ferguson, Weaver Box
The boxing matches will include a 4-round go between Doc Ferguson, 190 pound Pickaway county heavyweight champion, and Glenn Weaver, billed as Circleville's 180-pound brown bomber, and Jimmy Emerine, 110-pound youngster from Circleville, against Bob Alexander, 110-pound Jackson township lad.

It is probable that Cleve Kaufman, ex-grappler and Haft's right-hand man, will referee the grunt contests.

W. R. "Billy" Pickens Jr. will do the announcing.

One hundred ringside seats are being offered at the Mykranitz drug store and Mecca restaurant with all other seats to be sold at the gate Monday.

The C. A. C. ring is being rejuvenated to protect the wrestlers since some hot and heavy action is expected. A mat will be used because several of the grapplers, notably Hall, are body-slam experts.

On the success of this card may depend the future of wrestling and boxing in Circleville. If a goodly crowd attends, Haft and the C. A. C. will certainly sponsor more shows with some high class matmen to be sent here.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Victor in nine consecutive games and the state's lone undefeated and untied football team, Western Reserve seeks to conclude its season with a triumph over its city rival, Case, here tomorrow.

The contest, originally scheduled for Thanksgiving Day, was postponed when "Big Bill" Edwards, Reserve coach, declined to permit his team to take the field after a nine inch snow blanketed it.

A victory for Reserve tomorrow would enable the Red Cats to finish with the first perfect record to be gained by one of the school's eleven since 1894.

The Reserve-Case rivalry dates back to 1891 and has been renewed annually, with the exception of one season, since then. Reserve holds a wide margin in the series. The Red Cats have won 26 contests, Case 12 and five have been ties.

PITT RESUMES GRID PRACTICE IN FEW DAYS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 4.—(UP)—For the fourth time in eight years, a University of Pittsburgh football team prepared today to travel across the continent to play in the Rose Bowl on New Year's day, this time against Washington University's Huskies.

If it wins it will be Pitt's first victory. By coincidence the whole Panther squad was at a banquet in their honor at the University club when word came last night that the Washington Huskies had selected them as their opponents.

W. Don Harrison, athletic director, broke the news. The players voted last Monday to accept the bid if it were tendered. Informed that Washington athletic officials considered Pitt the strongest team in the country outside of the west, Harrison said:

"We think the Huskies are just as tough as they think we are. It ought to be a swell game."

Dr. Jock Sutherland, Panther coach, probably will call out his players Monday to get them ready for the trip. The team likely will leave for Pasadena Dec. 16 and work out en route.

TINKER, FAMOUS CUB INFIELDER, BELIEVED DYING

ORLANDO, Fla., Dec. 4.—(UP)—Joe Tinker, famous one-time star for the Chicago Cubs, today was near death of Bright's disease and diabetes.

Attending physicians said he could live only a few hours. His condition became critical yesterday and he was rushed to a hospital.

Tinker, who made baseball history as a unit in the immortal "Tinker to Evers to Chance" double play combination, was stricken several days ago. He lapsed into a semi-coma last night.

About This And That In Many Sports

Some Cage Notes

Reserves will play a preliminary starting at 7:30 p. m. Saturday at the Jackson township school when the Tigers open their cage season — The Justus brothers of Stoutsville will referee — Tiger officials will attend a Central Buckeye league meeting in the Neil House, Columbus, Saturday morning — Marysville is expected to raise plenty of ned, and may drop from the loop — Red and Black authorities are not interested in any other athletic league, at least this year — They feel the gate is better against Grandview, Bexley, Delaware, Westerville and Marysville than it would be against Washington C. H., Greenfield, Hillsboro, Wilmington, Xenia or London — No football game will be scheduled for Pumpkin Show week, usually the last full week of October. * * *

Opener Hangs Fire

Although Lancaster has offered the high school a neat guarantee to open the season there next fall under the lights, Principal E. E. Reger has been awaiting the outcome of the CBL session — It is probable Lancaster will be met — The Tigers' share of the gate would help finance some new equipment. * * *

Pitt Popular Choice

It is with a great deal of pleasure that Central Ohioans learn of Pittsburgh's selection as the Rose Bowl opponent of the University of Washington — Pitt's failure to win in three games on the coast does not take any of the glory from the team, because in all three cases Pitt was playing great teams — The Huskies, coached by Jimmy Phelan, formerly of Purdue, will provide a real test for the Panthers — Both teams are powerhouses, and a great football game should result — Alabama and Louisiana State will probably now be the South's choices for the Rose Bowl and Sugar Bowl contests and Duquesne and either Marquette or Fordham, preferably the former. * * *

BIG TEN TO DEBATE ASSISTANCE FOR VARSITY FOOTBALL PLAYERS

REYNOLDS' IDEA MAY BE BEATEN IN TEST TALLY

Scholarships For Gridders Favored by Wisconsin Professor

TRAINING TABLE SOUGHT

One Free Meal Daily May Win League Support

CHICAGO, Dec. 4—(UP)—Officials of the Big Ten, severest critics of subsidizing in intercollegiate football, convened today to draw up schedules for spring sports and listen for the first time to a plan offering alumni aid to superior prep school athletes.

The scheduling and naming of sites for both conference track and field meets in the opening session today was pushed into the background by the expected death of the Reynolds subsidizing plan before faculty representatives Saturday.

Prof. Robert L. Reynolds, author of the plan already approved by the University of Wisconsin, will make a personal defense of his plan to award scholarships on the basis of examinations in sports and studies made at the end of a six weeks institute for college prospects.

Outlaw Vote Seen

This is a direct violation of the conference code and the Big Ten likely will outlaw the proposal with little argument. Several coaches, however, said the forum might indicate enough liberal trend around the conference to push through approval of training tables for football players.

First indication that the controversial training table might become a major issue appeared with early arrivals for the conference. Athletic Director Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson of Northwestern said he would advocate that each school "serve one meal a day to football players." This would be dinner, following practice.

There was no comment from representatives of the University of Michigan, where a campus battle rages over the issue.

Although all coaches agreed on a one-meal-a-day plan last winter, faculty representatives vetoed it because it gave athletes outside help.

PLAYER MARKET AT STANDSTILL AS DEALS FALLS

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 4—(UP)—Activities in the player market were virtually at a standstill today with the major leagues leaving for their own meeting in New York.

Several big deals were still on tap, but indications were that no further action was likely at the minor league meeting which ended its 5th annual convention today. Results may be expected at the major league meeting at New York Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday on the following deals:

Sale of Dizzy Dean, somewhat cooled off by Branch Rickey's fancy quotations but still on the market; the New York Giants-Chicago Cubs trade, involving outfielder Hank Leiber, sought by the Cubs, and Third Baseman Stanley Hack, coveted by the Giants; Brooklyn-Pittsburgh deal, with negotiations now at the point where even Van Mungo, Dodgers' star pitcher, may be involved.

Guessing what Commissioner K. M. Landis may do about the Bob Feller case continues to be the favorite pastime here. The baseball men can agree on only one point, that Landis is confronted by the most important decision of his career.

Feller, Cleveland's 19-year-old pitching sensation, as a free agent, will bring a sum approaching $100,000 for his signature on a contract.

Landis has delved deeply into the Feller case.

Hall and Sherman Top Athletic Club's Card

The first high class boxing and wrestling show in Circleville history will be presented Monday evening when Al Haft, Columbus impresario, sends a stable of gruntes to the Athletic club gymnasium. The card is sponsored by the C. A. C. and starts at 8:30 o'clock.

The feature event will find Stacy Hall, former Ohio State university and Big Ten Star, meeting Pete Sherman, of Topeka, Kan., one of the ring's tough boys. This bout is scheduled to go an hour with one fall as the quota.

Other wrestling matches will put Sandy McDonald, Glasgow, Scotland, in the same ring with Henry Hill, of Bismarck, N. D. and Eddie Watson, pride of the Strawboard, against tough Spike Ashby, of Flint, Mich. Both these bouts are one fall with a 30-minute limit.

Ferguson, Weaver Box
The boxing matches will include a 4-round go between Doc Ferguson, 190 pound Pickaway county heavyweight champion, and Glenn Weaver, billed as Circleville's 180-pound brown bomber, and Jimmy Emerine, 110-pound youngster from Circleville, against Bob Alexander, 110-pound Jackson township lad.

It is probable that Cleve Kaufman, ex-grappler and Haft's right-hand man, will referee the grunt contests.

W. R. "Billy" Pickens Jr. will do the announcing.

One hundred ringside seats are being offered at the Mykranitz drug store and Mecca restaurant with all other seats to be sold at the gate Monday.

The C. A. C. ring is being rejuvenated to protect the wrestlers since some hot and heavy action is expected. A mat will be used because several of the grapplers, notably Hall, are body-slam experts.

On the success of this card may depend the future of wrestling and boxing in Circleville. If a goodly crowd attends, Haft and the C. A. C. will certainly sponsor more shows with some high class matmen to be sent here.

About This And That In Many Sports

Some Cage Notes

Reserves will play a preliminary starting at 7:30 p. m. Saturday at the Jackson township school when the Tigers open their cage season — The Justus brothers of Stoutsville will referee — Tiger officials will attend a Central Buckeye league meeting in the Neil House, Columbus, Saturday morning — Marysville is expected to raise plenty of ned, and may drop from the loop — Red and Black authorities are not interested in any other athletic league, at least this year — They feel the gate is better against Grandview, Bexley, Delaware, Westerville and Marysville than it would be against Washington C. H., Greenfield, Hillsboro, Wilmington, Xenia or London — No football game will be scheduled for Pumpkin Show week, usually the last full week of October. ***

Opener Hangs Fire

Although Lancaster has offered the high school a neat guarantee to open the season there next fall under the lights, Principal E. E. Reger has been awaiting the outcome of the CBL session — It is probable Lancaster will be met — The Tigers' share of the gate would help finance some new equipment. ***

Pitt Popular Choice

It is with a great deal of pleasure that Central Ohioans learn of Pittsburgh's selection as the Rose Bowl opponent of the University of Washington — Pitt's failure to win in three games on the coast does not take any of the glory from the team, because in all three cases Pitt was playing great teams — The Huskies, coached by Jimmy Phelan, formerly of Purdue, will provide a real test for the Panthers — Both teams are powerhouses, and a great football game should result — Alabama and Louisiana State will probably now be the South's choices for the Rose Bowl and Sugar Bowl contests and Duquesne and either Marquette or Fordham, preferably the former. ***

OVER AMBITIOUS
GAME IS worth so much more than a part game score that taking an even chance for game, by slightly overbidding values, is good policy. But, in my opinion, taking an even chance for a slam by overbidding values, does not pay in the long run. Consequently I consider that both North and South took unjustifiable chances in giving up a certain game and rubber, for what turned out to be even chances for making a small slam when both sides were vulnerable.

played low. East knew that declarer held just one card of the suit, but he had no idea what that card was, so he lost his Q to declarer's Ace.

Three rounds of trumps were run. On the last two tricks West let go a low card of each red suit, holding his clubs intact. That ruined declarer. Eleven tricks were in sight: 6 in spades, 2 in hearts, 1 diamond and 2 in clubs. One added trick had to be made. There were two possible ways of doing this. One was in case clubs broke. The other was in taking a heart finesse.

The 9 of clubs was led from dummy, after winning the third trump, to trick there. When East did not cover, declarer played his Q, as if he held the K, but not the J. West's Ace won the first defensive trick. The 10 of diamonds was led through dummy's J. That covered. East played the K. Declarer ruffed.

The K of clubs was led. West followed with the 4. East's 7 fell. Evidently West held the 6, but East might hold the missing 10, assuring the contract. So declarer led off his J of clubs, only to have East show out, by dropping the 6 of diamonds. Declarer led a round of trumps, hoping that something might happen. Both defenders discarded low hearts. As his only possible way to fulfill his contract, declarer led his K of hearts. Then he led his last heart, took the J finesse, and lost to the Q. Now he had to go down two tricks, as East led the Q of diamonds, forcing declarer to ruff, then West won the last trick with a good club.

GAME IS worth so much more than a part game score that taking an even chance for game, by slightly overbidding values, is good policy. Had West led his Ace of clubs, declarer could have spread his cards for a rubber, and his 6-odd doubled. But West held two possible stops to the suit, so he led his fourth best diamond. Dummy
